Based on these principles our objective has always been to grow the business in the most efficient and socially responsible way. Today's certification by the RJC confirms that after some 100 years in the business, we as a family and company, have not forgotten the basic principles and values that my great grandfather started this company with. We are proud to be good corporate citizens – ones that are social and ethically responsible to the world we live in," says Jay Mehta, Vice-President and Co-Owner of Paras Diamond Corporation.
